Miss Platinum City 2017 crowned

Mami Motsi, owner of Hlompo Modelling Agency and host of Miss Platinum City 2017.

Rustenburg – The glamorous Miss Platinum City 2017 was hosted at the Rustenburg Civic Centre on Saturday 2 September.

The event was one of a kind with stunning models from Hlompho Modelling Agency and young women from Rustenburg, showcasing beauty and welcoming spring with a bang. There was plenty of support from local performance groups including Incredible Dancers from Thabane.

The audience showed their appreciation of the beauty and talent of the girls. The competition is a platform for girls to pursue their dreams in the modelling industry.

“Although this event is a competition, it is like life in the sense that even when you lose, to never give up on your dreams and to continue to try harder,” Nhlanhla Mhlongo, one of the programme directors, said. Nthabiseng Lekomo won Miss Photogenic and Relebogile Mooketsi took the Miss Personality title as well as the coveted Miss Platinum City 2017 crown.

“I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their support in this year’s Miss Platinum City 2017. I thank all our sponsors, especially Couture Esperanza for the lovely items the models paraded in,” Mami Motsi, owner of Hlompo Modelling Agency said.

Tlhabane Police donate sanitary towels

Rustenburg/ Tlhabane – During one of the activities in celebrating women’s month, the Tlhabane Police Women Network in partnership with Phokeng Trauma Centre, Sanlam, Rustenburg Public Safety, Show me your number, the Department of Education, LifeLine and the Royal Bafokeng Institute, visited and donated sanitary towels to learners in three primary schools around Tlhabane in the week of 15 August.

Pastor Pele, motivational speaker and part of this initiative, motivated and encouraged learners to love themselves and never to compare themselves to others. She further told the learners that they must know that they are fearfully and wonderfully created in the image of God, and reminded them to respect their parents and be thankful for them and lastly to honour themselves and treat themselves like royalty.

A total of 106 young girls, 46 from Lefaragatlhe, 20 from JD Mosia and 30 from Motladi Kgoadi-Kgoadi, were issued with sanitary towels whereas eighteen boys were given deodorant. The initiative is to help girls to never miss a day of school and to improve their lives and to restore their dignity and self-confidence while participating in sports.
