Two killed on N4

Rustenburg – Two people were killed and three others sustained minor to moderate injuries when an SUV and an armoured vehicle collided head-on on the N4 near the Kroondal off-ramp in Rustenburg on Monday afternoon, 2 April. At approximately 14h30, paramedics from ER24 and local emergency services arrived on the scene where they found the armoured vehicle lying on its side against the barrier of the highway. An SUV was found in the veld next to the road as it went down the embankment. Two occupants were trapped inside the SUV. Sadly, there was nothing that paramedics could do for them and they were declared dead on the scene. Three occupants of the armoured vehicle sustained minor to moderate injuries. They were treated on the scene and later transported to a nearby hospital for further care. The exact circumstances surrounding the accident is not yet known. Investigations continue. We extend our sincerest condolences to the family and friends of the deceased.

Big spike in petrol price

The fuel price is set for a steep hike as higher fuel levies kick in, and an increase in international fuel prices makes its presence felt. This is according to the unaudited month-end fuel price data released by the Central Energy Fund. International petroleum product prices, which have remained stable since mid-February, have climbed sharply since 12 March. We're anticipating an increase of around 63 cents a litre for petrol, 57 cents for diesel. Illuminating paraffin, which is not affected by the levy increases, is expected to decrease by around four cents. The Rand/US dollar exchange rate has remained stable over the same period, meaning that most fuel prices would have increased even without the additional taxes announced in February's budget speech. The General Fuel Levy and Road Accident

Fund (RAF) levy will go up in April by a combined 52 cents a litre, meaning substantial price increases at the pumps. These increases will push the total amount of taxes paid to the levies to R5.30 a litre (from R4.78). This means that around 40% of every litre of petrol is being paid to indirect taxes via fuel purchases. These increases are substantial and will push the cost of fuel to over R14 a litre for inland users, and will certainly impact most on the poorest of the poor. These increases will also push the price of a litre of petrol closer to its December all-time high of R14.49 (93 octane) and R14.76 (95 octane) inland. Any further increases to international petroleum prices in the near future can mean local pump prices quickly surpass these highs.
