

MISSING STOP SIGNS

[Letter to the editor]

Rustenburg – It seems like the stop signs in Rustenburg got tired of people ignoring them, so they packed up their things and left.

This is actually not a laughing matter but a growing concern as more and more stop signs are being stolen and not replaced.

The missing stop signs on the corners of Hefer and Kruger streets, as well as the missing signs on the corner of Hefer street and President Mbeki drive, were reported on 28 April but no attempts have been made by the RLM to replace it.

Due to high traffic these areas experience on a daily basis, it is turning into an accident hotspot.

What will it take for the municipality to realise the magnitude of this problem and finally jump into action?

We can't solely rely on motorists to guess when they have to stop at intersections if there are no clear signs on or next to the roads. The municipality needs to replace these signs as soon as possible before someone loses their life.

Concerned motorist

The missing stop sign on the corner of Hefer and Kruger streets is a growing concern.

Heidi Peter Couture presents I HAVE A DREAM

Rustenburg – Deemed by some as the highlight of the Rustenburg fashion calendar, Hedgehog's Nest will be the place to see and be seen, on Saturday 3 August.

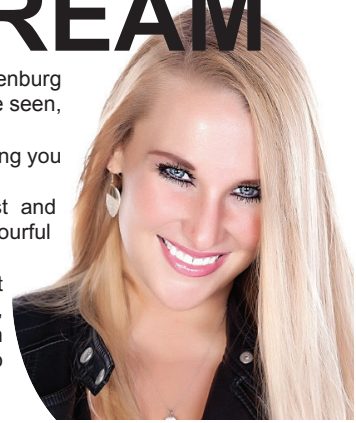

Peter Bondesio and Heidi Hollywood joined forces yet again to bring you a bigger, better and even more spectacular fashion extravaganza.

It will be a sensory explosion of fun, creativity, famous artist and unquestionably glamorous models with the most amazing and colourful creations.

The beneficiary of this fashion show is PinkDrive, a non-profit organisation with the focus on the prevention of breast cancer, prostate and testicular cancer with the message: early detection can help prolong lives. PinkDrive conducts free mammograms to people without medical aid.

Vote for our local beauty, Naledi!

Rustenburg – Naledi Ramaboea from Robega outside Rustenburg will be representing South Africa at the Ms United Nation International pageant 2019 in Toronto, Canada from 21 to 25 August.

Naledi is no stranger to beauty pageants and currently wears the crown as Ms Africa Elite 2019 and Ms Africa Elite United Nation 2019.

In addition to these title she was awarded accolades for best model, best evening wear, best transformation, best portfolio, best contestant gift, best event, best sponsor support, tourism-friendly social media marketing award, social media compliance, compliance to tasks, the integrity award, social media queen, print media queen and the prestigious Dignity Dreams Queen 2018 as well as the Ms Elite Face of Africa 2019.

During her reign she has been involved in various charity projects that include Dignity Dreams where she handed out washable sanitary products to young girls in rural communities. She has donated clothes to families in need and visited the Dimakatso Safe House in Moruleng where she presented them with linen, clothes and toys.

Clearly this beauty queen uses all the resources available to her to help make a positive difference in the community. Naledi needs your help to win the People's Choice award during the United Nation Pageant that focuses on volunteer work.

Vote for Naledi <http://unitednationinternationalpageant.com/peoples-choice/>
Votes costs $1 and proceeds will go to a special charity of the contestants choosing. Voting closes at 15:00 (Canadian time) on 24 August. You can follow her journey on her Facebook page
