

What's that awful smell?

Rustenburg – Residents living in the area surrounding the 'Marais Street' municipal public swimming pool has been plagued with a terrible smell hanging in the air for the last couple of weeks.

After complaints on social media, rumours started spreading that raw human faeces was used to fertilise the gardens at the swimming pools.

According to Rustenburg Local Municipality (RLM) spokesperson David Magae, in a press release, fertiliser was collected from the municipal sewage plant, managed by Magalies Water on Saturday, 10 August and applied to the gardens at the Karlienpark, Zinniaville and the 'Marais Street' public swimming pools. "The fertiliser has tremendously revived the grass significantly after the winter. Prior to the fertiliser being applied, the grass was brown and very dull, which was going to be an eye-sore to our residents who are now going to use the swimming pools as spring is already in full-swing. RLM is responsible for the general maintenance of this facility which includes the fertilising. We can open our facilities with greener lawns at a minimal cost implication so that our residents can enjoy everything on offer," said David. He added: "It is important to - debunk the myth - that at any of the facilities the awful smell is due to human faeces."
