

Braving dangerous water for an education

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg, Zinniaville – Every school day, children from Reutwile Zone 6 (Zinniaville) face a choice no child should have to make: take the longer route they cannot necessarily afford, or brave an unsafe and polluted stream to get to school. The Dorpspruit runs through this part of Rustenburg, separating residents of the informal settlement from Karlienpark and essential services on the other side. Among these are Karlienpark Primary School and Karlien Park Clinic, which residents need to access. The stream is not only an obstacle during the rainy season. Residents cross the watercourse throughout the year to reach school, work and healthcare. When heavy rains come and the water level rises, however, residents say the crossing can become extremely dangerous and at times impossible to negotiate. Residents are now calling for a bridge across the Dorpspruit, saying they desperately need a safe pedestrian crossing to connect their community with Karlienpark. Adding to an already difficult situation is another serious problem: illegal dumping. Large quantities of rubbish have accumulated along and around the crossing, leaving parts of the area resembling an informal dumpsite. It is alleged that much of the waste originates from within the informal settlement itself. Regardless of its source, residents, including children, must make their way through the polluted environment when using the shortcut. Community representative Avuyile Mabhunguza says residents have repeatedly complained to the Rustenburg Local Municipality about the lack of a safe pedestrian crossing. According to residents, the issue has persisted for approximately nine years. The municipality, however, faces its own constraints. As Reutwile Zone 6 is an informal settlement, funding for permanent infrastructure in the area is limited. For children walking to Karlienpark Primary School, the consequences are particularly troubling. They negotiate rubbish, dirty water and an unsafe stream crossing simply to get to their classrooms. The obvious question is: why not simply use another route? According to Luan Snyders, deputy leader of the DA in North West, residents have been warned that the stream crossing is unsafe and should not be used, with alternative transport such as taxis being the safer option. But Snyders said the reality on the ground cannot be ignored. “These are among the poorest of the poor,” he said. “Telling people to use taxis is one thing, but many simply do not have the money to pay for transport every day.” Snyders expressed sympathy for the residents, but said the problem is considerably more complicated than simply constructing a bridge. According to him, Reutwile Zone 6 is an informal settlement, with residents having occupied the area since approximately 2016. He said the settlement is situated in an area regarded as unsafe and affected by a flood line, while services and infrastructure in the settlement are largely informal. This creates a difficult situation. Building permanent infrastructure in an informal settlement situated in an unsafe area raises its own planning questions, while relocating an established community is neither a quick nor simple solution. Yet while those bigger questions remain unresolved, daily life continues. Residents still need to work. Sick and elderly people still need healthcare. Pregnant women still need access to the clinic. And, every weekday, children still need to get to school. Mabhunguza said the crossing is particularly difficult for children, elderly residents, women and people with disabilities. During heavy rainfall, residents may have to take extended routes and pay additional transport costs that many households can ill afford. Residents have also raised concerns about personal safety along the isolated route, including the risk of robbery and other crimes. For Snyders, the children remain one of the most concerning aspects of the situation. They are effectively braving dirty and potentially dangerous water for an education – not because crossing a stream is the sensible route to school, but because poverty can severely limit the alternatives available to them. The illegal dumping makes that reality even harder to ignore. Regardless of who is responsible for the dumping, it is worsening an already dangerous situation. For Mabhunguza, a safe crossing would represent much more than convenience. “A bridge isn’t just concrete – it is access, safety and dignity. Our children should be able to go to school without risking their lives, and our gogos should be able to reach the clinic.” There may be no quick answer to Reutwile’s larger challenges. The status and location of the informal settlement, the flood risk, illegal dumping, poverty and the need for safe access all form part of a complicated problem. But amid those complications are children doing something remarkably ordinary: trying to get to school. And for them, that ordinary journey should not require extraordinary courage.

Community member Jones Mpanshiso points out accumulated rubbish and water at the crossing. During heavy rain, residents say the route can become extremely dangerous and at times impossible to use.

Solution?

Platinum Weekly is calling on our community’s out-of-the-box thinkers! There may not be a simple solution, but perhaps someone has an innovative, practical idea to help create a safer crossing for the children of Reutwile Zone 6. Have an idea? We want to hear it! N4 sting stops stolen Toyota

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Mooinooi, Rustenburg – Three suspects were arrested after police intercepted a suspected stolen vehicle, reportedly travelling with an escort vehicle, on the N4 near Mooinooi on Thursday evening, 13 August 2026. According to North West SAPS spokesperson colonel Anne Magakoe, police received information at approximately 20:00 about a suspicious white Toyota Cross travelling from Rustenburg towards Brits. The vehicle was reportedly being escorted by a white Renault Sandero. The information was immediately acted upon, and a SAPS operational team spotted both vehicles travelling towards Brits. The Toyota Cross had been circulated as a suspected stolen vehicle linked to a Rustenburg motor vehicle theft case. Police intercepted the vehicles shortly after the Mooinooi Bridge and arrested three suspects, aged 25, 35 and 36. The Toyota Cross, valued at approximately R600,000, was seized along with the Renault Sandero. The suspects appeared before the Brits Magistrates' Court on Monday, 17 August 2026, on charges of possession of a suspected stolen motor vehicle and suspected stolen property. SAPS said additional charges could follow as the investigation continues. North West provincial commissioner lieutenant general Arthur Adams commended the officers for acting swiftly on the information received.

Sibanye-Stillwater, in partnership with the Department of Mineral and Petroleum Resources, the North West Department of Agriculture and Rural Development and the Bapo Ba Mogale Traditional Authority, recently handed over infrastructure and 14 stud bulls to smallholder farmers at Bapong, Segwaelane and Wonderkop in the North West province.

Over 98 local communal livestock owners benefitted from this programme, which aims to improve subsistence farming and food security in host communities. The bulls will also improve the genetic quality of the herd and have been vaccinated against Food and Mouth Disease. The programme, which was delivered in partnership with the Agricultural Research Council, forms part of Sibanye-Stillwater's social and labour plan.

As part of this programme, the company also built cattle kraals and crush pens and financed infrastructural improvements. Boreholes were also drilled and storage tanks and drinking troughs installed to allow for water access.

The smallholder livestock farmers also graduated from a Livestock Farmer Skills Livestock Development programme at the University of Pretoria's Faculty of Veterinary Science.

Speaking at the handover, Mineral and Petroleum Resources Minister Gwede Mantashe thanked Sibanye-Stillwater for implementing such an innovative and futuristic initiative, which benefits mining communities. "When we (told) mining companies to invest in impactful projects, this is what we meant," he said.

At Sibanye-Stillwater, our approach to shared value is rooted in the belief that mining must deliver tangible, lasting benefits not just for shareholders, but for employees, families and surrounding communities.

Improving healthcare access for communities

Go tokafatsa phitlhelelo ya pholo ya baagi

Partners at the handover of the new mobile healthcare facility

Sibanye-Stillwater and the Sibanye Rustenburg Mine Community Development Trust (SRMCDT) recently partnered with the Mobile Health Clinics Foundation (MHCF) to launch a fully equipped mobile healthcare facility, which will provide essential healthcare services to Rustenburg communities.

The mobile facility is fully equipped and consists of dedicated rooms for primary healthcare, dental care and optometry. It will also provide referrals and follow-up support where needed, and hold community outreach programmes to promote healthcare awareness and preventative healthcare education.

Beneficiary communities from the Rustenburg Local Municipality will now have access to multiple quality healthcare services in one visit.

The partnership is focused on health promotion, early intervention, and ensuring that vulnerable groups receive appropriate referrals and follow-up care. The mobile clinic will bring healthcare services directly into communities, enabling early identification and management of health concerns, and improving access to preventative healthcare services for all.

As part of this, we have built and renovated clinics, organised healthcare screening and preventative testing, and run programmes to promote health awareness and wellbeing.

Sports for community wellbeing

Sibanye-Stillwater, the Blue Bulls Rugby Union and Good Morning Angels recently visited paediatric patients in Tshwane. Together with the Lethabo La Bana Foundation, they distributed comfort packs and gowns to the children and their mothers as well as stationery to help doctors and nurses with administration.

The partners pledged R100,000 to the Foundation, which will supplement care packs and a year's supply of specialised burn dressing kits to the paediatric wards of Public healthcare facilities in Tshwane.

The Sibanye-Stillwater Warriors rugby club also held a charity golf day in Mooinooi on 12 June 2026, which raised over R200,000 to support the Foundation's efforts to construct a wound care room and playroom.

Dr Lola Chuma and Professor Mariza de Villiers, the Foundation's founders, thanked everyone, reiterating that it could not have been done without their help. The Foundation provides care packs, toiletries and supplemental wound healing dressings to the children being cared for at the paediatric wards of Tshwane public hospitals, bridging the gap between available stater resources and critical needs of paediatric patients and their mothers staying with them during treatment.

The Foundation also supports medical trainees attending conferences and workshops and purchases extra essential medical equipment to supplement and improve these hospitals' treatment capacity.

Exposing learners to commercial agriculture

The Sibanye Rustenburg Mine Community Development Trust recently partnered with several schools to visit the 58th edition of the NAMPO Grain Harvest Day, held between 12-15 May at NAMPO Park, Bothaville, Free State. During the visit, learners were exposed to the entire agriculture value chain, including the latest machines and farming methods, exhibited by over 910 producers and manufacturers.

The NAMPO Harvest Day, which is held yearly, is the largest open air agricultural trade exhibition in the Southern Hemisphere. In 2026, over 81,800 people attended the event.

This forms part of Sibanye-Stillwater's efforts to expose youth in host communities to sustainable alternative economy projects, which will provide opportunities beyond mining.

Sibanye-Stillwater, in partnership with the Department of Mineral and Petroleum Resources, the North West Department of Agriculture and Rural Development and the Bapo Ba Mogale Traditional Authority, has established a honey production unit, which included training local youth in beekeeping.

The Ditlou beekeeping project in Bapong is led by two local women entrepreneurs. Sibanye-Stillwater also helped the business to attend the annual South African Bee Industry Organisation's (SABIO) BeeCon conference at Sun City between 30 June and 1 July 2026, which brought together different stakeholders from the industry to promote collaboration and unpack the industry's future challenges and opportunities. The conference also hosted the national honey, meads and bee products competition, which recognises innovation and excellence in the local bee industry.

Sibanye-Stillwater previously trained and donated 500 beehives and personal protective equipment to the entrepreneurs. They also attended an incubator programme implemented in partnership with Enterprises University of Pretoria.

Since its inception in 2023, the project has produced over 255kg of honey. Sibanye-Stillwater has purchased some of the honey and has developed an e-commerce platform to link these beekeepers with markets. Visit www.beeafrican.africa for more information.

Local SMME owners celebrate their completion of the carpentry programme

Sibanye-Stillwater recently celebrated the graduation of 60 local small, medium and micro enterprise (SMME) owners from host communities who successfully completed a two-week carpentry training programme in partnership with Phakamani Impact Capital.

The programme was designed to strengthen business capabilities and provided hands-on carpentry training, practical business skills and exposure to industry networks, supporting long-term business growth and sustainability.

At the graduation event, participants also engaged with organisations including Allan Gray Makers, Innovus, the South African Women in Construction (SAWIC), Built Environment (BE) and the National Home Builders Registration Council (NHBRC). These organisations shared information on the opportunities, industry support services, and development programmes available to emerging entrepreneurs.

One of the graduates, Sindisiwe Bhembe, from Westonaria, reiterated that the programme has positively impacted her future aspirations. "We are grateful for the skills we have gained because they will work in our favour. Managed by William Senyane, a local community leader from Ward 32 Marikana West, 224 community safety coordinators (CSCs) have been trained in Marikana and 40 were recruited from Rustenburg. The training covers water safety, firefighting, first-aid and community asset base research.

The Marikana centre has also conducted safety awareness campaigns in communities, especially in schools. In addition, 952 safety kits have been donated to Marikana communities, while a further 100 kits will be donated to Rustenburg communities in the coming months.

The centre has also worked with community policing forums and the South African Police Service (SAPS) in managing community safety.

Gabedi showcases youth entrepreneurship

At just 25, Gabedi Lesejane is the co-founder and co-director of Gabs and Maps Multi-Purpose, a Rustenburg-based business originally rooted in engineering. Today, however, its fastest-growing division is cleaning. From office parks to malls, Gabs and Maps now delivers full-service hygiene solutions with a strong focus on compliance, professionalism and value for money.

Gabedi co-founded the business with his mother in 2018 while studying mechanical engineering. After graduating and completing the Sibanye-Stillwater Youth in Mining Enterprise and Supplier Development (ESD) programme, he realised just how far they could take the business. With the right tools, training and support, they expanded their offerings, grew their client base and built a team of more than 20 permanent staff.

The company now operates across two Rustenburg sites and is expanding its footprint in Gauteng, with vendor registrations underway for major property and retail players like Growthpoint and Sun International.

Gabedi says the decision to focus on cleaning came from recognising the consistent demand and the chance to professionalise a service that is often overlooked. "Cleaning is one of those industries people do not always take seriously, but it is essential. We want to change the narrative. We want to make cleaning professional and even exciting. Our team has more than 50 years of combined experience and we invest in annual upskilling to ensure we stay ahead."

The shift in focus does not mean engineering has been abandoned. The company is still tendering for several contracts in the mining sector; however, the cleaning division is growing rapidly and has opened doors to new markets. From laundry services to deep cleaning, the goal is to become a holistic cleaning service provider for large organisations.

Gabedi credits much of his business growth to the Sibanye-Stillwater ESD programme, delivered by Phakamani Impact Capital. "The training helped me understand our value proposition better. It helped us see where we could offer more value in the value chain. I learned how to communicate what we do more clearly, how to present to large clients and how to position our services in line with industry standards," he says.

Beyond the operations, Gabedi's personal growth has been equally significant. "I used to struggle with public speaking. I used to stutter; now I have the confidence to stand up and pitch our services with clarity and pride. The coaching helped me open my mind and realise what we could really achieve. It gave me a vision."

Gabedi Lesejane, co-founder of Gabs and Maps Multi-Purpose

In the next five years, he wants to see Gabs and Maps operating nationally with at least 100 employees, regional operations managers, and a fleet of vehicles to support growth. He also wants to secure ISO certification and continue investing in systems that support quality, safety and compliance.

"Our aim is to offer a world-class service, every time. No shortcuts, no paperwork missing. Just professionalism, value and results," says Gabedi.

67 minutes for good causes

In honour of Nelson Mandela's legacy, Sibanye-Stillwater employees at our South Africa PGM operations volunteered with members of the Wonderkop community, Helping Environment & Resilient Development (HERD), the North West Department of Education Bojanala District, and Madibeng Local Municipality to clean up parts of the Wonderkop community.

The initiative, which was held at Tlhapi-Moruwe Primary School, saw volunteers clean-up illegal dumping sites near the school, improving cleanliness and instilling pride. As part of the effort, clean-up materials and four recycling bins were also donated to help with ongoing waste management practices at the school.

Additionally, in partnership with Sehuno_ZA, we donated stationery and toiletries to Thaba Marula Secondary School in Segwaelane, Madibeng. This will support Grade 12 learners and contribute to their educational needs.

Mandela Month provides a powerful reminder that collective actions can drive meaningful change and that by working together, we can empower communities and combat poverty and inequity.

Mandela month initiatives supported by Sibanye-Stillwater and partners

Promoting road safety

Sibanye-Stillwater recently participated in the international level crossing awareness day (ILCAD) campaign, which was organised at the Dr. Moroka Level Crossing in Rustenburg. The campaign brought together stakeholders, including the Railway Safety Regulator (RSR), Transnet, the South African Police Service (SAPS), the South African Traffic Department, and the Rustenburg Local Municipality. Motorists, cyclists, pedestrians and learners were educated about level crossing safety, with the campaign also including educational talks and stats update briefings.

ILCAD is an internationally recognised initiative, held every June to educate the public and raise awareness about the dangers associated with level crossings.

According to the RSR there are 7,665 level crossings in South Africa, of which 437 are classified as high-risk. The Dr. Moroka level crossing has been identified as one of these high-risk level crossings in the North West, even though incidents and accidents have decreased in recent years.

Working together to support food security and sustainable livelihoods

North West Department of Agriculture and Rural Development representatives, together with partners from Sibanye-Stillwater and MDA, donating gardening equipment as part of Mandela month activities

Sibanye-Stillwater, in partnership with the North West Department of Agriculture and Rural Development and the Mineworkers Development Agency (MDA), recently established food gardens and donated gardening tools and seeds to 150 community members in Marikana, including Marikana Primary School and Rakgatla Secondary School.

As part of the initiative, partners assisted with planting activities and provided practical guidance to help ensure the long-term sustainability of the gardens. The project aims to improve access to nutritious food, strengthen food security, and create opportunities for income generation through the sale of surplus produce.

North West MEC for Agriculture and Rural Development, Madoda Sambatha, and Sibanye-Stillwater Executive Vice President for Stakeholder Relations, Thabisile Phumo, attended the event and highlighted the importance of partnerships in building resilient, self-sufficient communities.

The North West Department of Agriculture and Rural Development has committed to providing ongoing technical support to beneficiaries, while Sibanye-Stillwater continues to promote sustainable agriculture as a means of supporting community empowerment, food security, and alternative livelihood opportunities beyond mining.

BLUE RIBBONS, BRAVE HEARTS

Rustenburg stands with alopecia community

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – A simple blue ribbon carried an important message across Rustenburg on Friday, 31 July 2026, as local schools, businesses, organisations and individuals showed their support ahead of World Alopecia Day, officially observed on 1 August. Among those taking part were learners from Laerskool Rustenburg, who wore blue ribbons around their wrists to help raise awareness and show solidarity with people living with alopecia. The awareness drive was encouraged by Kaalkopkjint®, an initiative inspired by eight-year-old Kqiara Ava Russell, who lives with alopecia and has been bald since she was about three or four years old. Rather than hosting one central event, Kqiara's mother, Theresa Russell, encouraged people across South Africa to wear blue on the Friday, when schools and workplaces could reach more people and spark conversations about the condition.

The official Kaalkopkjint® – an initiative promoting alopecia awareness, acceptance and the powerful message that hair does not define who you are.

“Our message to the community is simple: Alopecia is more than hair loss,” Theresa said. “It is an autoimmune condition that can affect confidence, mental health and daily life. A little understanding, kindness and inclusion can make a world of difference,” Theresa said. Alopecia is an autoimmune condition in which the immune system mistakenly attacks healthy hair follicles, resulting in varying degrees of hair loss. It can affect children and adults and is not contagious. Some people experience small patches of hair loss, while others may lose all the hair on their scalp or body. There is currently no guaranteed cure, although treatments may help stimulate regrowth or manage symptoms in some people. Through Kaalkopkjint®, Kqiara and her family hope to challenge misconceptions and remind others that hair does not determine a person's worth, abilities or potential. Their message is one worth remembering long after the blue ribbons come off: confidence, courage, kindness and character are what truly define a person.

Learners from Laerskool Rustenburg proudly wore blue ribbons around their wrists in support of World Alopecia Day and those living with alopecia.

Seven Rustenburg fighters ready for the world stage!

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Seven fighters from Rustenburg Mixed Martial Arts Academy (Rustenburg MMA) have earned the opportunity to represent their academy – and their hometown – at the RCFA World Championship in Windhoek, Namibia, in October 2026. The selected fighters are Shaun du Preez, Thomas Pelser, Jaco Prinsloo, Rudolph Botha, Lohan Pieterse, Hennie Nel and Shayden Bryant. Their selection marks an exciting new chapter for an academy that has steadily grown from local competition to provincial and national success. Led by Sensei Brian van Rooyen, Rustenburg MMA is built around discipline, dedication and respect. Van Rooyen's own martial-arts journey stretches back decades, having achieved his first Dan black belt in 2000 at the age of 18. Today, the Protea Park-based academy trains children and adults in disciplines including Karate, Kickboxing, MMA, Grappling and Self-Defence. Over the years, Rustenburg MMA fighters have collected numerous podium finishes. Fifteen students were selected to represent North West at the 2024 National Kickboxing Tournament in Potchefstroom, where the academy achieved an impressive 17 podium finishes. Now, seven of its fighters are preparing to take the next big step: international competition.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT NEEDED Getting seven fighters to a world championship comes with considerable costs, and Rustenburg MMA is appealing to local businesses and individuals for sponsorships or contributions to help make the trip to Namibia possible. “Rustenburg MMA is a family. These seven fighters have worked incredibly hard for this opportunity, and we would greatly appreciate any company or individual willing to help them compete at the World Championship,” Sensei Brian said.

For sponsorships, contributions or more information about Rustenburg MMA, contact Sensei Brian van Rooyen on 073 074 4184. From local mats to the world stage, these seven fighters now have the chance to carry the Rustenburg name across the border – and show just how far discipline, determination and hard work can take you.

2026 Rugby's Greatest Rivalry Tour

Die Kiwi's het die Bulls die afgelepe Saterdag op Loftus met 50-19 gepeits en gewys hulle is hier om ruggas te speel. Die AB's speel Dinsdag 25 Augustus om 19:00 teen die Lions in Jo'burg. Die eerste van vier toetse is op die rugga-spyskaart vir die fynproewers, maar beslis nie vir sissies nie. Hierdie rillerreeks skop Saterdag 22 Augustus om 17:05 op Ellispark af. Die praat is vir eers verby – nou kom die werklikheid van 'n stryd tussen twee rugbyreuses waar geen genade getoon gaan word nie. Go Bokke!
